Villa Solyana is indeed a home located on a well established urbanisation whereby the current owners helped design and build the property and its surroundings based n the fact they were going to live there full time. In this respect its slightly differing internal layout and many extras both interior and exterior is the reason this bespoke, 2 bed, one level property may stand out from its competition. Another reason is the covered pool which is very rare but the most economical way of heating any pool over here given the amount of sunshine hours and both the terrace and gardens, aswell as sauna, all contribute to the complete package with Villa Solyana. Tarmac access and all mains services are connected with upgraded windows throughout, var
