Casa El Toril is an urban property, partly reformed in the centre of a Hamlet called El Toril. The access is good and the roads have recently been upgraded. The property is a nice size and has lots of scope to put your own stamp on it. There are 2 sets of deeds, one for the house and a separate one for the land, which is 1,500m<sup>2</sup>. The structure is good, with the original part of the house having the traditional thick Spanish walls. The newer part at the front of the house has the basic electrics in but still needs to be finished with floor tiles etc. At the moment there are the beginnings of a lounge at the front of the house, a bathroom, dining room and kitchen, on the next level there are 4 bedrooms and then the 3rd level has a retangu
